

Bus Stop Blues

after James Baldwin's Sonny's Blues

I read it while waiting at the bus stop and couldn't believe it. I read it again. Rain fell, soaking me and the newspaper now glistening in the street lamp's glow. Newsprint danced on the page, your name blurred by rain, and yes, tears. The bus never arrived. That is the way in this city.

Keith Hood